

You Can Help Us Deliver An Unforgettable NFED Family Conference

Ectodermal dysplasias are rare genetic disorders affecting hair, skin, nails, teeth, and sweat glands. Other body parts can also be affected. Studies suggest that only 14.5 in 100,000 new births are affected worldwide. With about 50 known types, symptoms vary from mild to severe and diagnosis can be challenging.

Living with a rare condition like ectodermal dysplasias can feel isolating. That's why the NFED provides a vital community of support. Our annual Family Conference brings together individuals, families, doctors, dentists, researchers, and more from around the world to connect, share experiences, and access specialized resources. Together, we ensure no one faces ectodermal dysplasia alone.
